A bespoke revival of a timeless classic

We restore and modify classic Porsche 911s to the highest standard of detail, elegance, and performance.

A homage to the greatest sports car of all time

We strive to maintain the spirit and tradition of these beautiful sports cars. Our builds combine the timeless essence of a classic car with the right dose of modern tech to enhance the fun and excitement of the analog driving experience.

Artisanal from the design desk
all the way to delivery.

Each build requires the participation of its future owner along with a group of skilled craftsmen who work directly on the car. This non-tech-intensive process ensures that we identify the individual peculiarities of each one of them.

As unique as its owner

Each numbered build is unique and tailored to fit its owner's personal taste and driving style; no two builds are ever the same.

Obsession for quality

Each build requires over 3,000 hours of labor. We don't cut corners: if it isn't done perfectly, it is simply not done.

A clean donor car is selected, we focus on G-body style 911s built between 1974-1989 and prefer those fitted with a 3.0 or larger engine. Donor cars must be running, rust-free, unmodified, with complete paperwork, clean titles, and whose structure is intact.

We aim at maintaining originality where it matters, however, most cars will be blasted to a bare metal sheet.

Electric harnesses are checked and restored, replaced, and/or modified to ensure proper fit and perfect operation, and to comply with build specs.

After paintwork is completed, the car gets new / restored interior (seats, carpet, dashboard, additional components.)

New brakes are fitted to each corner.

The Process

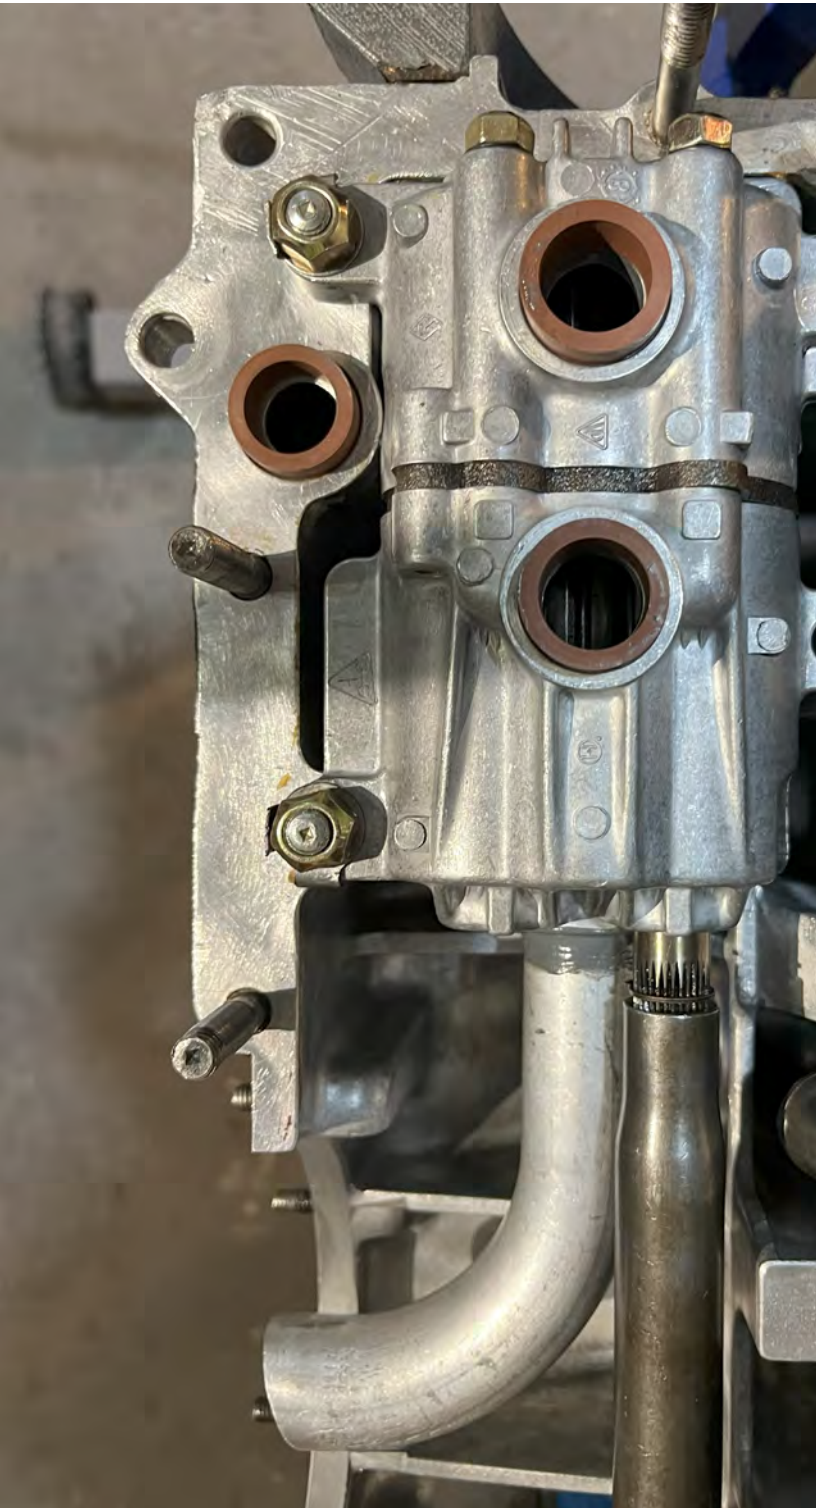

Customers may bring their own car -which must comply with our requirements- otherwise, we can source one for them.

Engine, drivetrain, suspension, windows, and interior are removed.

Depending on build requirements flares are added to body and fiberglass parts sourced to obtain final look of the specific build. Bodywork includes alignment of all panels and body components to our specs.

Engine, transmission, and suspension are rebuilt and -depending on design- modified to brand-new standard.

Each car undergoes an extensive revision and 1,000km break-in process to ensure that all components perform as designed. The new owner can dive right into the fun of driving an analog Porsche MEVdisegno build.

Important Notes

However similar, each 911 produced is a unique piece of art and engineering. We believe in maintaining this originality. Hence, we will reuse as many parts as judiciously possible. Reused parts will be restored to brand-new standard of functionality, sometimes despite restoration being costlier than replacement.

All new parts are original Porsche, OEM or manufactured by reputable specialized companies.

Our process is labor intensive; hence we only have a limited number of spots available per year. A typical build will take anything between 16 to 20 months to completion.
